Columbia Disc Graphophone.

Nothing has occurred, in years, in connection with the talking machine business, that has caused more of a sensation than the recent announcement that the Columbia Phonograph Company was to put a disc graphophone on the market. The fact has probably been lost sight of that when the graphophone was invented it was brought forward in two forms—as a disc machine on which the recording stylus makes a zig zag cut, and as a machine using cylinders on which the recording stylus makes a straight cut of varying depth. These machines each had their advantages and the question as to which was left to the public for decision, with the result that the demand for the one using cylindrical records grew from a small beginning to enormous proportions, while there was practically no call for the disc type. Thus, for years, the model of the last named instrument has awaited the possible coming of the day of its utilization. Graphophones using the cylindrical records, have in the meantime, been sold in all parts of the world, by the hundreds of thousands and the art of record making has been carried, year by year, to a higher point of excellence, until the Columbia record of today is among the perfected products of human ingenuity.

In the years that have been passing while the graphophone has been changing from a crude talking machine to the wonderful instrument that is now universally accepted as the best, if not the only satisfactory machine in use, other manufacturers, recognizing the impossibility of making progress in competition with the graphophone and the world's renowned Columbia records, have brought out, under various names, imperfect disc machines and while their sale has been limited, sufficient interest in them, with the constant increase in the army of talking machine users, has finally been shown to warrant the Columbia Phonograph Company in supplying a first class machine of the disc description. It is built on more scientific lines than the disc machines of other makers and is superior to them in every respect. Instead of being a hybrid thing, it is a graphophone, with all the advantages of that well known and highly valued instrument, with its mechanism skillfully adapted to the use of indestructible disc records, similar to, though far better than those used by other disc machines.

The facilities of the Columbia Phonograph Company for manufacturing graphophones of every conceivable kind, as well as records of surpassing merit are so far in advance of those of their little rivals, that the mere announcement that they will now furnish a disc graphophone has brought them heavy advance orders from all points of the compass. With this entrance into a field in which small concerns have accomplished a little but not very much, the Columbia Phonograph Company takes possession of the entire business, having won its commanding position by preserving it and by right of having been in the field with every improvement that tended to advance the art.

Woman's Foreign Missionary Society.

A meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Lexington District, were in session in this city, the latter part of last week. The opening service consisted of the addresses of welcome, given by Miss Blanche Lillicton, on behalf of the adult society, by the Mary Bashford Truehearts, for the children and Rev. J. L. Clark, for the church. Miss Edna Robertson, of Mt. Sterling, responded. Mrs. A. T. Forsyth, District Secretary, conducted the business sessions, when the work of the past year was reviewed and the coming year planned. The presence of Miss Mattie Watts, for twenty years, a missionary in Brazil, was an inspiration, as well as a pleasure. Among the well-known missionary workers who were present and added much to the interest of the meeting were, Mrs. C. J. Nugent, of Harrodsburg, Mrs. M. A. Odell, of Winchester, and Mrs. Rosella Hogan Cram, of Warsaw.

A delightful lunch was served at the noon hour on Friday by the ladies of the Paris Auxiliary.

Religious.

The choir at the Second Presbyterian Church, in this city, is much improved of late, and is rendering some very fine music. On last Sunday morning a double quartette gave a fine selection, and Miss Washington sang a very sweet solo, "The Holy City," which was much appreciated.

The meeting at the Christian church, in this city, has been a most satisfactory one in every respect, and it was expected that it would close last night. Large audiences have been in attendance at all of the meetings and much interest has been manifested. There has been fifty-one additions in all to the church.

Elder J. T. Sharrard has declined to work at Cane Ridge for next year and will go to another field for half his time.

A KNIGHT OF 1901

By WILLIAM BLOSS.

(Copyright, 1901, by Authors Syndicate.)

LONG about the middle of that series of school "readers" which was most used a generation ago—it may have been the "third," or it may have been the "fourth" reader—was one which, among other classic selections, contained the account in verse of how, when the queen of the medieval fete had bantered Lord Francis to chase after the glove she had wantonly thrown into the arena among a ferocious collection of man-eating lions, the active and astute Lord Francis "lightly leaped" down to the arena sands, deftly snatched up the lady's glove before the astonished lions could figure out what he was up to, climbed nimbly back to his seat by the fair lady's side, and then—good Lord Francis!—threw the glove, slap bang, right in the lady's face.

"Not love," quoth he, "but vanity, prompted such a deed as this." The poet fails to inform us upon the point, but one can imagine that after this there were no wedding bans for the fair lady and Lord Francis, who was the catch of the season, and that she was exceedingly sore about it, and repented her folly at leisure.

There may be different mental attitudes regarding the propriety of this tempestuous conduct of Lord Francis, some, no doubt, contending that no true gentleman would under any stress of irritating circumstances return to a lady her glove by throwing it sharply into her face, and that this breach of decorum at once stamped the knight as a boorish-mannered and racoon-minded person, whose name should be stricken from the blue book of his day; but it appears to be a majority point of view that the lady was served exactly as she deserved, and that if she went unmarried to the end of her days she received only such measure as she merited. And strangely enough, it is the ladies themselves who most ardently uphold this latter view of the case.

In the midsummer of this first year of our newest century, the big city of Chicago, stirred by the public spirit of a generous citizen, discovered in suddenness what had been a readily apparent fact for three whole generations—that its far-stretching shore of sandy beach and cooling water was a heritage of the people, and had not been designed by nature as a riparian asset for land-grabbing corporations or an easy dumping spot for the refuse of contractors. Accordingly, private means having furnished the equipments of which the civic purse had denied, or never thought of, there were established all along the shore, from the mouth of the sedgy Calumet to far Lake View, public bathing beaches, provided with convenient dressing-rooms, with soap and towels and bathing suits, free for the uses of all who came, with life lines and floating rafts upon which the bathers could disport, and, above all, with expert attendants to teach the art of swimming and to be at touch in any moment of peril which might unhappily overtake the inexperienced or the venturesome. The waters of Lake Michigan are cold, and only when an east wind rolls its sun-heated surface in upon the shallows of the western shore is it really adapted for pleasure bathing.

Public appreciation of this new-found luxury—and tacit condemnation of the civic stupidity which had so long denied it to the people, its real owners—was evidenced at once in the vast popularity these free bathing beaches leaped into in an instant and continued to hold until the rippling air of fall rendered undress disporting on the sands no longer a pastime and a joy. Hundreds of thousands of visitors, the records show, partook of their advantages during the brief season.

It was at the most frequented of all these beaches so opened to public use that young Elmer Armstrong, a university matriculant, whose legacy had been a stout heart and ambition to rise, a strong body and the hardy constitution bequeathed by sturdy forbears, a pure mind and untrepid resolution. He had, besides, a widow's blessing and a couple of hundred dollars he had earned as an amateur life saver before he became a freshman at 19.

Not much, you will say, when it must be reckoned that this was absolutely all he had in the world, beyond the dear memory of how his mother had loved him, and had toiled long that he might go through the high school. Well, there are those worse equipped, many men whose white hairs speak of that wisdom whose seed are trial and experience would prefer Elmer Armstrong's capital of youth and courage and hope and loyalty to two hundred times two hundred dollars in the bank, without those things. It wasn't the pawn-brokers, but the youth who were swift and strong, whom the ancients crowned with laurel.

And Elmer Armstrong passed a useful and a prosperous and a sunlit summer. Useful because his swift dashing in the water served to bring safely ashore many foolish swimmers who were overtaken by cramp in deep water, and many unaccustomed bathers who lost their balance and their heads when the wind blew tempestuous breakers out of the east, and made a dangerous undertow when the wild waves sought hurriedly to retreat, astonished, from the shore to the depths which had borne them; prosperous because he was well paid, and twice or thrice had been given substantial rewards by different relatives whose children he had brought ashore from grave danger in the treacherous surf; sunlit, because Elmer was in love.

When a youth not yet of 20 years falls in love with an earth-born goddess of 18, and when his passion seems to find response and the jaundiced fangs of doubt and jealousy find no lodgment in his buoyant breast, then to be in love is to have all places temples, all seasons summer. Sleeping, he dreams of songs. Waking, his unconscious consciousness basks in a perpetual glory whose beams engulf one central shrine wherein she is the hallowed saint. Then to live, to be, to feel, to know that one loves, to believe one is beloved, to endure heart-piercing raptures, to laugh at pains, to woo, to part, to meet again—a daily tempest, a mighty prayer. Oh, laughing little god, whom kingly poets and poet kings have crowned, well did those who knew thee first perceive that thou wert blind.

Why it was Celeste the one only girl in all the world for the young life guardian is hardly clear to those who saw the burgeoning bud, the blossom, of this waterside romance. True enough, she was sufficiently fair. Her lips were red, her black eyes very bright, her white little teeth quite regular. Her supple young body was ravishing in its maiden glories of rounded elasticity and glowing tints, not even the envious screen of her modest bathing dress could conceal this fact—but, well, one shouldn't be captious where so much else was charming altogether. Her girl friends said Celeste was vain, for one thing. For another, they whispered among themselves that she was a spiteful little cat who cared only for Celeste and none other.

There, you bore. Go to one's neighbors to find out the truth. For my part, I merely have concluded that Celeste has no soul. But that is the veriest speculation. One should be rational, and even fair, regarding one's dislikes.

However it may be, when he had met Celeste Elmer fell so deep into the well of love that he would like to have drowned there. Nor is this any metaphor of speech.

She came almost every day, after the first. The young guardian of the beach, a giant with blue eyes and yellow hair, an Antinous in naked calves and arms, taught the fairest of all his visitors the gentle art of floating, the strenuous rush and swirl of the overhand stroke, the restful, evenhanded, tireless progression of the breast stroke. She took to the water like a duck. After a month the pupil bid fair to overtake the master's skill.

She came first with her parents, and a younger brother or two, graceless brats, canal bred, who had known how to swim at birth, and who took deep joy in splashing cold lake water upon the timid and shivering Celeste at her first venture. After a time the elder people came no more. They made Elmer's acquaintance and had confidence in him. They saw at once keen glance the strength in his great frame, the honor in his clear blue eyes. To such as he it is good to commit children, even young girls. After a time, too, the brats also stayed away when they thought it was the hour for Celeste. You see, when she had learned no longer to fear the water, and had become mistress of a bold stroke or two, she revenged herself most thoroughly for the early splashing the brats had given her, and ducked them in deep water most unmercifully, until they were half strangled. Which fable teaches much. There's a meaty kernel in most fables, if one can crack the shell.

Celeste and Elmer used to swim together a great deal, when the crowds were gone, or had not come, for often she sought the shore at sunrise, after they were engaged—she was a decorous girl, in most ways, and duly reared—and they had glorious long distance excursions in company, into deep water. Elmer insisted always upon having a boat along when she was with him, out of extra care for his treasure, he said; one never knew what might happen in Lake Michigan. Did I tell you, no. It was in the water that first he told her his love, his worship, of how he hoped to make her his wife and helpmate, and of what great prizes he would aim at and struggle upward to, if she would join him in the dear battle of life. And whether then she loved, or no, or thought she, or liked his manliness, his prowess, his rare blue eyes and noble forehead beneath the tangled mat of yellow hair, she said yes, and put her arm about his neck and kissed him many times.

After that it was understood. There were no objections. "Wait a little," said Celeste's father. "Both of you are very young. Elmer must get on a little yet. Be happy, but wait, my children." Celeste's father had quite a stock of sense.

One night, under the full moon, Elmer and Celeste were the center of a select party of belated bathers. The workaday crowd had long been homebound. Sportive challenges flew back and forth among the swimmers.

"Celeste and I together can beat any one of you to the government brake-water," cried Elmer, proudly. Most of those he addressed were his most proficient pupils, the best swimmers on the beach.

"Done, for supper for all," the challenged ones retorted. "Those who tire can get in the boat and help row." There were two capacious yaws at hand, and the race was arranged. Six swimmers entered the water. Four others pulled the two boats in their wake. The waters grew cold out in the lake. To the brake-water it was a mile and a half from the beach. Before it was reached all but two of the swimmers called to be helped into the welcome boats. By main strength Elmer supported the shivering Celeste until they had reached their goal. Then they climbed up into the warm, summer air panting. She was nearly exhausted.

"Even Elmer's tired out," said one of the losers. "No wonder we couldn't make it."

"Pooh," sniffed Celeste. "It's nothing. He could swim back again, now."

"I shouldn't care to try, in that ice water," laughed Elmer.

"I know you could," persisted the girl. Then, as her lover only shook his head, her face changed strangely. "Never have I asked you any real favor, before," said the girl. "I want you to swim back to prove that I am right. Won't you? You don't love me. I won't marry you, Elmer Armstrong, unless you swim back, this minute."

There was no answer but the clug a diver from a height makes as his body pierces the water. Elmer was swimming strongly for shore, and was rods away before his surprised companions could huddle into their boats, seize their oars and set after him.

He went on strongly, bravely, until near shore. Then he sank, without a word. When he came up he waved away the eager aid into the nearest boat which waiting hands held out to him. "Get in, get in, Elmer," they cried, "you have done enough. Only Celeste was mute."

The swimmer lay upon his back a few minutes, curtly saying he would be all right in a moment. He wanted no help. Then he slowly swam the short distance to the deserted beach. As he rose from the water the boats grounded beside. Celeste laughed merrily.

"I knew he would do it, if I asked him," she shrieked exultantly.

Then she held out her arms to him, that he might help her from her seat to shore.

Elmer bent slowly over the boat side, looking keenly at her face. Something she never had read in the depths of his blue eyes made the girl turn pale. As she started back from him, the man slowly stooped, filled his great palm with water, and flung it scornfully in her face.

GOOD LITTLE WILLIE.

Teacher—Now, Willie, you may tell those bad little boys why you didn't go swimming with them last Sunday.

Willie—Well, you see, the melons wuz ripe at old man Gaynor's, an' he don't keep no dogs.

A Tramp-Proof Name.

Bath (Me.) is reported to be having a business boom. Bath's lucky in another way, remarks the Chicago Record-Herald. Tramps will never go near the place.

More Distressing.

Mrs. Day—Did I understand you to say your husband had no vacation? Mrs. Gay (the minister's wife)—Worse than that! I said he had no vacation.—Philadelphia Press.

FUNNY FOLKS

Getting the Facts.

"How far is it to the next town, my friend?"
"It's a right smart piece."
"How many miles?"
"Hain't never counted 'em."
"Well, how many yards, then?"
"Well, they's my yard, an' Neigabor Jones' yard, an' the Widder Scott's yard, and—"

"Nonsense! How much ground will I have to cover between here and there?"

"Well, they use to call it ten acre or so, but it's my opinion its ten an' a half!"—Atlanta Constitution.

A Genuine Pleasure.

Acouple were getting married, and the man who was acting as "father" was an extremely fussy person. When the question was asked, "Who giveth this woman to be married to this man?" to the amusement of both the clergyman and the congregation this gentleman stepped forward and said: "I have very much pleasure in doing so."—Tit-Bits.

Hustlers.

Si Pumpkinduster—They tell me that when a city feller proposes tew a city gal she always says: "Oh, this is so sudden!"
Abe Geelaw—Well, that's only natural. Why, them city fellers don't think nothin' of proposin' tew a gal thet they've only kept company with for three or four years.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Handy to Have Around.

She—You won't object to having my dear mamma live with us after we are married, will you?
He (a young physician)—Not at all. In fact, she'll be most welcome. "I'm so glad you feel that way."
"Yes, you see, she is always ailing, and I really need somebody to experiment on."—N. Y. Weekly.

Astute Alice.

There was a young lady named Alice. She lived down in Texas, near Dallas. She married an earl.
Did this clever young gearl.
And now she is boss of his police.
—Baltimore American.

QUITE SO.

Miss White—Is that charming Mrs. Gray unmarried?

Miss Black—Yes. She was unmarried for the third time last week.—Chicago Daily News.

The Casual Observer.

This old world has some curious ways. You watch with eager eye, And don't know if you ought to laugh Or if you ought to cry.
—Washington Star.

Very Suspicious.

Friend—Why, Elvira, what's the matter?

Elvira—Oh, I don't know, only I'm worried to death. I've had the same girl six weeks, and she doesn't talk about leaving yet.

"She doesn't?"
"No; not a word. She must be in love with my husband."—N. Y. Weekly.

Her Real Preference.

Mabel—Here's a writer on health who says we mustn't eat pickles at all.

Irene—O, well. I don't really care for them. If I can have all the chalk and all the slate pencils I want I don't care if I never see a pickle.—Chicago Tribune.

Couldn't Be Done.

Lady (in dress with long train)—I wish my portrait taken.

Photographer—Take this seat, madam.
"Oh, but I want it full length."
"Hum! Very sorry, madam, but my panoramic camera is out of order."—N. Y. Weekly.

Method in Her Madness.

Dashaway—Last night I experienced a novel sensation. Miss Twilling invited me out to dinner as her guest, and insisted on ordering and paying for everything. I wonder what she did it for?

Cleverton—She probably wanted something to eat.—Harlem Life.

Only Half a Trial.

Purchaser (angrily)—You told me this horse could go with the speed of the wind. It was all I could do to get into town before noon.

Dealer—He ain't had no fair show yet. Wait till ye turn him home'ard. Goin' home he's greased lightnin'!—N. Y. Weekly.

The Polite Young Man.

"Yes," said the haughty young woman who was a Colonial Dame as well as a Daughter of the Revolution, "my great-great-grandire fell at Bunker Hill."
"Ice or banana skin?" inquired the polite young man from Milwaukee.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Dupletty.

"I don't understand how Ethel Mothwing ever got engaged to such a steady, matter-of-fact young man," said one girl.

"It was easily managed," answered the other. "She got a cook book, took the covers off and inserted the paper-back novel she happened to be reading. The silly fellow thought she was going to make a wonderful housewife."—Washington Star.

Judging.

Oh, I despise the fool who thinks That only money makes the man— And yet how pleasant it would be If men had cause for judging me Upon that foolish plan.
—Chicago Record-Herald.

BREAKING THE NEWS.

"Hubby, dear, you must buy a new hat."

"But I don't need one."
"O, yes, you do. I ordered one for myself to-day."—Heitere Welt.

Once Again.

"Where are you going, my pretty maid?"
"I'm going milking, sir," she said.
"May I go long?" he asked of her.
"There's one calf there ahead of her."
—Chicago Daily News.

Force of Habit.

"Have you no regret?" we asked of the druggist who had served arsenic instead of quinine.
"No," he replied, "but I have something just as good."
However, he well knew that we expected him to say this, else why would we have written the first question?—Baltimore American.

Quite Speedy.

Elder Passnips—My boy writes home that your son Jack isn't getting along very fast at college.
Deacon Oldham—Don't you believe what your boy's tellin' you, elder. Jack's goin' through fast enough. He runs away ahead of his allowance every month.—Chicago Record-Herald.

As It Seemed to Bridget.

Mrs. Frills—Now that I have engaged you, Bridget, I am going to begin right away to give you a little training in the art of waiting on guests. You see, my daughter is coming out next month—
Bridget—Indade, mum! An' how long was she sint up for?—Richmond Dispatch.

Pity.

A sage looked past the bars one day Upon a fol and sighed, And murmured, as he turned away: "Alas! if in his infancy He only could have died!"
The fool gazed at the sage as he retreated from the place, And said: "I wouldn't care to be Alive if God had given me That poor old fellow's face."
—Chicago Record-Herald.

PAID FOR IN FULL.

"How much did yer pay for the watch, Bill?"

"Six bloomin' months."—The King.

Salt of the Earth.

One advantage had old man Lot In this world of trouble and strife; When in after years he got fresh He could go home and lick his wife.
—Chicago Daily News.

Why She Liked Them.

After three-year-old Frances' little guests had departed, her mamma asked:

"Frances, do you like little girls to visit you?"
"Yes'm; I like little children to come unto me, for of such is the kingdom of Heaven."—Harlem Life.

What It Is That Comes.

"Do you believe that all things come to him who waits?"

"No," answered the hustler, decisively. "Pretty nearly everything that a man doesn't want comes to him who waits, but the things worth having come to him who gets up and humps himself."—Chicago Post.

A Clinch Game.

Mrs. Waggles—I met the doctor today and told him about your malaria. He said you were to take some whisky every time you had the chills. Waggles—All right, my dear. I'll shake for the drinks.—Judge.

THE AMERICAN NAVY.

Secretary Long Recommends an Increase in Ships and Men.

suggests the Revival of the Grade of Vice Admiral and an Increase in the Number of Cadets.

Washington, Nov. 16.—The keynote of the annual report of Secretary Long for 1901 is "increase," and increase in both the number of ships and the number of officers and sailors for the navy.

"The navy to-day," he says, "is a far greater factor in our relations with the world than it was before the recent national expansion, which now includes Porto Rico, the Hawaiian islands, the vast area of land and sea in the Philippines, and our obligations to Cuba. If we are to have a navy at all, it must be commensurate with these great extensions—greater in international than in territorial importance."

The secretary's recommendation for new construction based on the report of the general board headed by Adm. Dewey and that of the board of construction is as follows:

Three first-class battleships, two first-class armored cruisers, three gunboats, each of about 1,000 tons trial displacement; three gunboats, each of about 200 tons trial displacement, for insular service; three picket boats, each of about 650 tons trial displacement; three steel sailing training ships, each of about 2,000 tons trial displacement; one collier of about 15,000 tons trial displacement; four towboats.

All the vessels recommended in these two reports, says Secretary Long, are desirable in the prospective and harmonious development of our naval force, and a larger increase this year than usual is desirable because none were made last year.

The secretary places emphasis on the necessity for more line officers and more enlisted men. He recommends that the number of lieutenants be increased from 300 to 350, and that the limit of the number of junior lieutenants and ensigns be placed at 600. As to the enlisted men, he recommends that that force be increased by 3,000 men.

Another pressing need set out in the secretary's report is that for a national naval reserve, which was so strongly advocated by President Roosevelt when he was assistant secretary of the navy.

In connection with the subject of naval personnel, Secretary Long makes a number of important recommendations as follows: The revival of the grade of vice admiral, an increase of 50 per cent. in the number of cadets at the naval academy, an increase of the marine corps by 750 men, increase in the corps of naval constructors and of civil engineers, and no further appointments to the office of professor of mathematics.

THE X RAYS.

A New Apparatus Designed for a Stereoscopic Vision of Broken Bones, Etc.

New York, Nov. 16.—E. W. Caldwell describes in the current Electrical Review new apparatus designed for stereoscopic vision by X rays. It has been developed in the laboratory at the Bellevue Hospital Medical college, New York city. By using two sources of X rays in the same tube each eye views independently the shadow, with the result that the picture stands out distinctly, showing all the space relations of the objects viewed. It is thought that this method will be of the most value in surgery, permitting immediate examination of broken bones, etc., as if they were viewed by the eye with their positions accurately indicated, instead of in silhouette effect, as formerly.

NOT GUILTY.

John Wilburn, Charged With the Murder of Rosa Hudson at Leavenworth, Acquitted.

Leavenworth, Kan., Nov. 16.—After being out but seven minutes the jury in the case of John Wilburn, charged with the murder of Mrs. Rosa Hudson in a raid on a "joint," brought in a verdict of "not guilty," and the prisoner was released. Evidence was adduced to convict four or five raiders, who have not yet been caught. Mrs. Hudson was killed in the wreckage of a "joint" during the Carrie Nation crusade.

Blooded Horses For New York.
Helena, Mont., Nov. 16.—Two special trains, bearing 232 head of blooded horses raised on the Bitter Root stock farm of the late Marcus Daly, left here for New York. The horses will be sold at the Madison Square garden. These are the last horses that will be sold from the ranch, all blooded animals having been shipped away.

On Detailed Duty.

Washington, Nov. 16.—Naval Constructor Richmond P. Johnson has been detached from duty in the bureau of construction and repair and detailed to duty in connection with the management of the government naval exhibit at the Charleston exposition, South Carolina.

Vessels Missing.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 16.—The propeller, Thomas Davidson, and consort, Aberdeen, coal laden, from Buffalo, for Milwaukee, are missing and fear is felt for their safety.

Johnny Obed.
"Children," said the teacher, while instructing the class in composition, "you should not attempt any flights of fancy, but simply be yourselves and write what is in you. Do not imitate any other person's writings or draw inspiration from outside sources."

As a result of this advice Johnny Wise turned in the following composition: "We should not attempt any flights of fancy, but write what is in us. In me there is my stumminck, lungs, hart, liver, two apples, one piece of pie, one stick lemon candy and my dinner.—Baltimore American."

Just the Man.

"I say," said the business man to the detective, "some fellow has been representing himself as collector of ours. He has been taking in more money than any two men we have, and I want him collared as quickly as you can."

"All right," I'll have him in jail in less than a week."

"Great Scott, man! I don't want to put him in jail; I want to engage him."

—Boston Transcript.

Bad Investment.

Theodore.—It's all right, darling. I have met your father, and we took to one another at once. He even went so far as to borrow ten dollars of me. Surely, he can't reuse me your hand after that.

Edith.—Dory, I'm afraid you've made a mess of it. Pa told me about the ten dollars, and said I'd better let you slide; that you were too easy.—Boston Transcript.

Best for the Bowels.

THE BOURBON NEWS.

PUBLISHED EVERY TUESDAY AND FRIDAY.

SWIFT CHAMP, EDITOR AND OWNER.

By some mischance, there was no murder committed in Lexington last Saturday night. Paris, however, has the credit of one.

The survey of the proposed electric line between this city and Lexington began yesterday. It seems that the two cities will yet be linked with the interurban.

The race for Speakership of the coming house of Representatives is waxing warm at present, and it is hard to even guess the strength of either candidate at the present time. The candidates are: Hon. Gerald Finn, of Franklin, Simpson county; Hon. G. Allison Holland, of Eminence, Henry county, and Hon. L. E. Weatherford, of Mayfield Graves county. Each was a leader in the last legislature, and they all have many friends throughout the State who are now working for their interest.

The majority in the next Legislature will be good and strong, and the re-districting of the State, should be voted on, supported by every Democrat. Remember, that now's your chance. The Republicans wouldn't do a thing to us, if they had a chance.

Leave your order with G. W. Gardner for nice dressed Thanksgiving turkeys, fresh roasts, etc. The very best of everything in the butcher line, and delivered promptly. (2t.)

The regular edition of the Wise News a country newspaper published at Wise, Va., failed to come out on time, last week, being two days late. The editor gave the following reasons in explanation:

"First:—We went to Big Stone Gap and sacrificed fifty cents to hear Sam Jones 'cuss' the world and dance a jig on its coffin.

"Second:—To rest from that tired feeling which the Jones harangue brought upon us we went bird hunting on Wednesday, and got bored again. And like a cow's tail, we've been behind ever since.

"We are now free to confess that Sam Jones on morality, the bird-hunting on foot is enough to clog the wheels of the universe, much more those of a country newspaper."

The above named Company, composed of business men of Paris, has recently been incorporated, and for the purpose of developing their oil and mineral leases, offer for sale a limited number of shares of stock.

The Company's holdings consist of leases on nearly 7,000 acres of land, nearly all of which are located in Barren and Allen Counties, Kentucky. Their lands have been carefully selected, some of which adjoin lands on which are Oil wells that have produced for years a very fine grade of oil. Their leases were secured before the present rush and excitement began in those Counties, and are choice lands, and valuable.

Lands, adjacent to Company's, secured recently by Eastern capitalists at large price, are now being developed as fast as machinery can be put on grounds. Those desiring stock can obtain same by applying to Secretary or any officers of the Company. 20ct

The city of Lexington is in a bad shape financially. The council has refused to pass the classified list and there is no money to pay the October claims. The city has borrowed the limit.

The Daughters of the Confederacy will present to each of the public schools at Lexington, a photo engraving of Jefferson Davis.

Owingsville grocers abandoned the use of telephones Nov. 1st for the reason that too many calls were made for the delivery of small purchases.

The blackbirds have become such a nuisance in the last two or three years that they make life miserable for the property owners. It is said that by burning sulphur under the trees where the birds roost they will be forced to decamp. The sulphur should be burned shortly after roosting time, and a few cents worth would do for a whole season.

Forests.

(Communicated)

Our finest forest trees are all being felled and sold, and unless our farmers replant, the general appearance of Bourbon county will be bare and desolate in the extreme.

If each farmer will plant their Fall a cart load of walnuts on all our pikes and on their farms, generally, the cost will be inconsiderable and the result beautiful.

The Clintonville pike along the Ferguson farm has many walnut trees bordering it, adding greatly to both the beauty of the road and very much to the pleasure and comfort of all who travel that highway in summer.

Every road in Bourbon county should be bordered with long lines of walnut trees. M.

You Do, or You Don't Need Glasses

The eye being a rather delicate organ, great care should be exercised in the selection of proper glasses. Many believe that glasses should be resorted to only when the sight becomes so defective as not to be able to do without. This is a great mistake which must be combatted. Whenever there is unmistakable evidence of the need of their aid, they should be used. A neglect of this rule sometimes produces mischief which results in serious trouble if the course be persisted in.

The November term of the Bourbon Circuit Court will begin Monday, Nov. 25th. The Commonwealth docket is light—12 felony cases and 54 misdemeanors. Old Equity cases, 195; Equity appearances, 31; Old Ordinary, 68; Ordinary appearances, 28.

The residence of Mr. Bismarck Frank, on High street, lately purchased of Mr. Henry Isgrig, was discovered on fire about 9 o'clock Sunday night, and the fire was extinguished with the aid of the fire company, and little damage done. The cause was a defective flue.

The Fiscal Court, at a meeting held on Friday, re-elected the old turnpike officials, with the exception of H. C. Eals, who was succeeded by Jessie Letton, of the Jackstown neighborhood. Albert Rice, who has been the County Janitor, was elected keeper of the County Infirmary, in place of Wm. Bedford, the present incumbent.

The lawyers of this city, met at the office of Hon. E. M. Dickson, yesterday morning and organized a local bar association. Judge Russell Mann was made chairman, and John J. Williams, secretary. A committee was appointed to draft constitution and by-laws. All members of the local bar are requested to go to Louisville as delegates to the state meeting in December. The meeting adjourned to meet again in January.

C. Alexander shipped yesterday, 151 head of export cattle. He will ship 176 head to-morrow.

BURGLARS have been working this city with a vengeance and it would be well for our people to keep close guard over their possessions. Have a good gun in reach and give the parties a warm reception. On Friday night they entered the saloon of Arch Stout & Son, and relieved the place of $40 in money and a fine revolver. They also visited the grocery store of C. B. Mitchell, by way of a window, but as far as Mr. Mitchell could learn, nothing was taken. It is thought that the work is being done by amateurs and that they are after money only. The police are working on the case.

Twin Bros. clothing store was visited also and two pairs of trousers stolen. An entrance was made by breaking the window glass.

Thieves entered Mrs. Bettie Ingels' cellar and carried away a load of coal.

Buck Freeman Kills His Man.

Buck Freeman, a colored sport and saloon keeper, on Saturday night, shot and instantly killed Will Richardson, also colored. Richardson was drinking and in Freeman's saloon, on Main street, and, it is said, became abusive. Freeman ordered him out of his place, when Richardson drew a knife and advanced on him. Freeman pulled his revolver and fired twice, one shot only taking effect, which pierced his heart, killing him instantly. Freeman was jailed by Officer Toolin. The difficulty arose over a gambling debt.

Richardson has been employed in a grain warehouse, in this city, and is said to have been very quarrelsome when drinking.

Previous to opening the saloon, Freeman ran a barber-shop in this city, having learned the trade while a convict in the Kentucky penitentiary.

The examining trial of Freeman was held before Judge Smith yesterday afternoon, and he was held over to the grand jury in the sum of $500, with James O'Brien as surety.

Judge Webb's Court.

In Judge Webb's Court, yesterday, J. H. Butler, living in the country, was arraigned on the charge of shooting at random in the business house of Tom Freeman, colored, on Saturday night last. On account of the absence of the City Attorney, the case was postponed till Wednesday morning, at 10 o'clock.

A man named John Delaney, was fined $15 for abusing his family. Jennie Washington, an almond-eyed damsel, was assessed $7.50, for using profane language.

Emanuel Goinions was guilty of a breach of the peace, and contributed the sum of $20 towards the payment of the new sewers and other city debts.

Amusements.

WHITNEY & KNOWLES' "QUO VADIS" TO-NIGHT.

Those who have seen the original dramatization of "Quo Vadis" by Stanislaus Stange, say it would be useless for any ordinary company to attempt to play it. There are thirty-two speaking parts, each requiring a performer of special qualifications to properly portray his or her role. Besides, there are scenes which require a small army of supernumeraries to properly portray, especially the one showing the burning of Rome, when the soldiery of Nero drive, butcher and crush the Christians. In addition to the people required, there is a wealth of the most gorgeous scenery to lend realism to the magnificent stage pictures that portray the scenes and incidents so familiar to the readers of the famous Sienkiewicz novel. This is the production that the theatre-goers of this community will be given an opportunity of witnessing to-night, and despite the heavy expense necessary for taking such an aggregation on tour, there will be no advance in prices.

JOHN GRIFFITH IN A "A KING'S RIVAL"

The theatre-going public will have a fine opportunity of seeing Mr. John Griffith, in an extremely different role, than any in which he has heretofore appeared, when he makes his appearance in the role of "Don Caesar," in "A King's Rival," at the Grand next Thursday night. It is a beautiful, romantic, comedy drama, full of comedy, bright, catchy, with just enough "romance" about it to give Mr. Griffith an opportunity in heavier work, in which he has so long been identified. The role of Don Caesar is full of light comedy, which Mr. Griffith plays with a dash, surprising all who have seen him in heavier roles. Mr. Griffith is supported by a large company of artists, headed by Miss Kathryn Purnell, who, in the part of "Mariatania," the gypsy girl, has received great praise for her wonderful versatility, playing the lighter scenes with a dash that makes her heavy emotional scenes stand forth by contrast. The play is beautifully staged and costumed, Mr. Griffith carrying a car-load of scenery for this excellent production. With bright music intermingled with the play, it makes a delightful evening's entertainment.

Capt. C. M. Ewing and daughter, Miss Martha Ewing, of Owensville, are guests of Mrs. C. E. Leer.

A Card.

EDITOR BOURBON NEWS: Allow me through your columns to call attention of the people of Paris to the magnitude of the Whitney & Knowles' Company, which produce "Quo Vadis" at the Grand to-night. I am afraid that they will confound this company with some of the inferior ones with which the country has been infested for several years. The Whitney & Knowles production is the same one that has been producing this play at New York, Chicago and all the principal cities. As regards to scenery, costumes, etc., it stands on a par with that of the Otis Skinner Company which was here last week. It is really a fine attraction, one of the very best that could be secured, and I earnestly hope will be well patronized. Very truly yours,
R. S. PORTER,
Manager The Grand.

A COAL MINE ON FIRE

Twelve Dead Bodies Taken Out and Twenty-Five Persons Rescued.

It is supposed that the flames were started by a defective electric light—Several Other Persons Are Missing.

Bluefield, W. Va., Nov. 15.—Twelve dead bodies have been taken from the baby mine at Pocahontas. Several other persons are unaccounted for, and 25 persons have been rescued more or less severely burned.

At 3 o'clock Thursday morning it was discovered that the baby mine, of the Pocahontas Colliery Co., at Pocahontas, Va., was on fire. An alarm was sent in and the fire company responded promptly. In a very short time after the fire fighters had reached the mouth of the mines and were attempting to extinguish the flames some of the firemen and others having rushed inside the mines to ascertain the extent of the trouble and to assist miners entombed therein, a terrific explosion occurred and many miners and their friends were more or less injured. It is supposed that the mines caught fire from a defective electric light wire.

Twenty-five persons have been rescued, all more or less burnt, some seriously and perhaps fatally. The instantly killed were carried to their homes in wagons and all the physicians in Pocahontas have been busy all day attending the injured. One or two other explosions have followed that of the early morning, and others are hourly expected. The mine is still burning, and clouds of smoke are constantly issuing from its mouth. The fan has now been stopped, and as soon as possible to do so the mine will be re-entered, with hope of extinguishing the fire.

In 1894 Pocahontas experienced a like occurrence, in which over 100 lives were lost.

The list of the dead so far recovered are: Louis Woolwine, John Bernhart, Will Montgomery, M. D. Koonits, and a Hungarian named Urico.

Woolwine, Montgomery and Koonits were killed while attempting to reach and bring out a dead body. At this time it is impossible to secure the names of those injured. As yet it is impossible to estimate the amount of damage to the mines.

At a late hour Thursday night it was thought that not over 20 men, the last shift of the day, were in the mine when the first explosion happened. Members of the rescue party who escaped claim that they were within sight of two bodies lying on the ground supposed to be dead, when they were driven back by the second explosion.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 16.—A Bluefield, W. Va., special says a rescue party entered the burning baby mine at a favorable time and succeeded in reaching a point hitherto inaccessible. They saw in the distance the corpses of six or perhaps seven men and endeavored to reach them but the extreme heat drove them back. The fire is growing fiercer. All efforts to get even partial control of it have proved futile.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS.

Much Damage Was Done to Property Near Richfield, Sever County, Utah.

Salt Lake, Utah, Nov. 15.—A special from Richfield, Sever county, states that the damage to property in that county from Wednesday night's earthquake will amount to $100,000.

Scarcely a building escaped damage of some kind. The Mormon tabernacle at Richfield was damaged to the extent of $2,000. The members of the choir were in the structure at the time of the shock, and fled, terrified, to the street.

At Marysville the entire population left their homes after the first shock, built bonfires in the streets, and camped out all night. In many parts of the country landslides have occurred, blocking railroads, changing streams and causing general dis-order.

No Connection With It.

Washington, Nov. 15.—In reply to numerous inquiries regarding a project for obtaining subscriptions purporting to be for the benefit of United States ex-life savers, the general superintendent of the life saving service announces that neither the service nor any of its officers have anything to do with the project, or any connection whatever with it.

Queen Wilhelmina's Condition.

London, Nov. 15.—The condition of Queen Wilhelmina is worse than has been officially reported. Three physicians are in attendance upon her majesty, and the queen's mother has been summoned. The royal patient will be obliged to keep her couch for six weeks.

Mysterious Death.

Rome, Ga., Nov. 15.—James Goings was found dead in his buggy Thursday a few miles south of Cave Springs, his neck being broken. His death is a mystery, and it is thought he was murdered and robbed by highwaymen.

Col. George W. Trigg Dead.

Richmond, Mo., Nov. 15.—Col. Geo. W. Trigg, aged 35 years, a well known temperance advocate, died Thursday after a lingering illness. Col. Trigg was formerly president of the Missouri Press association.

JIM JEFFRIES WON.

The Big California Pugilist Still Retains the Championship of the World.

San Francisco, Nov. 16.—In one of the most unsatisfactory prize fights ever witnessed in this country, James J. Jeffries proved the victor Friday night over Gus Ruhlman, the Akron giant. In the fifth round of what was to have been a 20-round struggle Ruhlman wilted and then surrendered to his peer, to the utter amazement and disgust of the assembled thousands. No one was more surprised at the outcome than Jeffries himself, who asserted that while he had delivered one telling blow in the second round, he did not expect to win the victory so easily. Ruhlman's sole explanation of the outcome of the fight is that he received a chance blow which utterly disabled him, and that Jeffries persisted in fighting him low.

While Ruhlman will make no absolute charge of Jeffries having committed a foul, he intimates that he was unfairly handled and injured as a result. Ruhlman received the support of his seconds in this stand, who say that his was a hopeless case after the second round. When seen in his dressing room after the fight Champion Jeffries said:

"I was certainly surprised at my easy victory and Ruhlman's amazing defeat. While it is true that he did not punch me hard enough during the five rounds to cause me any alarm, I believed him strong and cautious up to the moment of his collapse, and was surprised when he quit. I certainly had no trouble in whipping him, and had the fight gone on, the result must have been the same. Ruhlman was inaccurate and in poor wind, and I can not say that he even had the courage and force that I expected to encounter in him."

"Ruhlman took a stiff punch in the stomach in the fourth round, which, I presume, gave him trouble, nevertheless I expected him to lose harder than he did. Ruhlman can doubtless best explain his own position, and as for myself, I am willing to meet Sharkey next month, and there after to defend as best I can the title I hold."

CARBON CAST STEEL.

A Private Test of An Armor Plate Was Made at the Indian Head Proving Ground.

Washington, Nov. 16.—A private test was made at Indian Head of an armor plate made by the Carbon Steel Co., under patents of cast metal. The purpose is to combine a backing of low grade, soft and tough cast steel with a high carbon cast steel face, which may be made of any proportionate thickness. This plate is six inches thick, and was attacked by a six-inch gun, both shots cracking the plate. The inventors claim to be satisfied with the demonstration of the success of their plan of effecting a complete union by casting together the two grades of steel.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCK.

Buena Vista, Col., and the Surrounding Country Receives a Severe Shaking Up.

Buena Vista, Col., Nov. 16.—This town and surrounding country experienced an earthquake shock which lasted for several seconds. Many people rushed from their residences in night attire, fearing their homes would be demolished. Plate glass windows were cracked. It is reported that the waters of the Cottonwood lake rose considerably. Many huge boulders on Mount Princeton and Mount Harvard were dislodged and rolled down the sides of the mountain. The seismic disturbance seemed to travel from the southwest to northeast, and lasted about six seconds. This is the first earthquake ever felt in Buena Vista.

DETROIT BASEBALL CLUB.

Frank Dwyer, Former Cincinnati Pitcher, Signs a Contract as Playing Manager.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 16.—Frank Dwyer, the former Cincinnati pitcher and umpire, after a conference with the new management of the Detroit Baseball club, Friday night signed a contract as playing manager of the club, and he at once began his work of organizing the club by signing Jimmie Barrett as one of the outfielders. The interests of Mr. Stallings in the club have not yet been acquired by the new managers. Two conferences were held between Mr. Stallings and Secretary Cook, but without results.

Dishonest Employees.

New York, Nov. 16.—Two employees, whose names have been withheld, robbed the Williamsburg Savings bank of $60,000. One of the men guilty of the crime was said to have died recently. Gen. Meserole, president of the bank, admitted that one of the men had confessed to the cashier. The bank is partly secured against the loss.

Fire in a Packing Establishment.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 16.—Fire that broke out in the cannery building of the Cudahy packing establishment destroyed that building, with a large stock of canned meats that it contained. The loss is estimated at $150,000.

Brilliant Meteoric Shower.

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 16.—A meteoric shower of great brilliancy and considerable length occurred here early Friday morning. The shower continued half an hour, during that time more than 200 meteors were counted.

THE MINING TROUBLES

One Killed and Four Wounded Near Madisonville, Ky.

A Well Directed Fire Was Poured Into the Houses Occupied By the Non-Union Employees and Their Families.

Madisonville, Ky., Nov. 18.—Mining troubles in this district brought bloodshed Sunday morning. Jas. H. Smith, a Negro striker, is dead; Geo. Crouch another striker, is fatally wounded, while John West, Hut Dawson and Nathan Bush, all guards, are wounded none of them dangerously. The trouble occurred at the mines of the Providence Coal Co., 17 miles from here where an attack began at about 4:30 o'clock. The attacking party, some 75 or 80 strong, first fired on the engine house and then in a few minutes the company's stables were surrounded. A horse and a mule were killed and several other animals disabled. By this time the guards were becoming active and the attackers formed in a semi-circle over the brow of the hill. From there they poured a well directed fire upon the houses occupied by the non-union employees and their families. Men aroused by the crash of bullets rushed to small timber piles, arranged for use in such an emergency, and from behind these returned the fire.

The attacking party, while sending volley after volley into this quarter, kept up a steady fire on the toilet, engine room, stable and other buildings of the company while the guards, for their part, were doing effective work. The battle raged for almost an hour and a half when the assailants withdrew, leaving Smith dead and Crouch shot through and through on the field. How many wounded they took with them is not known, but the leader was seen to fall and it is believed some of the party who went to his rescue were hit.

County Judge Hall, at Providence, started an investigation. An inquest was held, the coroner's jury verdict being that the Negro came to his death at the hands of the guards, while defending life and property, and they were therefore justifiable. The news of the shooting spread like wildfire. It was not long before the news reached Adj. Gen. Murray, who at once commenced an investigation, opening up communication with the governor.

Following the battle at the Providence mine there were riots at other Kentucky mines. An attack was made on the mine guards at the Monarch mines, three miles from Earlinton Sunday night, but it was repulsed. Two employees of the St. Bernard Coal Co., at Morton's Gap, were fired upon by a man who sprang from behind a tree. There was much trouble at other places, but neither injury nor loss of life followed.

Madisonville, Ky., Nov. 18.—Two companies of state troops have been ordered out. The Madisonville company is doing patrol duty in the outskirts of town and the Hopkinsville company of the Kentucky state guard under command of Capt. H. Thomas and Second Lieut. Robert D. Bellamy reached here at 11 o'clock Sunday night. There are but 30 of the men as orders reached Hopkinsville but a short while before train time. The company has an enlisted strength of 70 men and those who could not be found Sunday night will follow in the morning in command of First Lieut. Geo. W. Phelps. Maj. E. B. Bassett of the 3d regiment of Hopkinsville accompanied the troops. Adj. Gen. Murray was out in a statement Sunday night in which he declares he is determined that lawlessness shall be suppressed. A detail of 20 men started for the Providence mine.

Sunday night as the train having the troops aboard passed the Nortonville camp, located in the woods near the railroad, camp fires could be observed and the scene was one of bustle. Several shots were fired, but not at the train.

At the Madisonville camp the strikers were astray. A searchlight recently placed on top of a coal tippie near Madisonville was thrown on the camp. About 150 men were there handling their arms and walking about between their tents.

A MEMORIAL ARCH.

The Empress Dowager Has Issued An Edict Eulogizing the Late Li Hung Chang.

Peking, Nov. 18.—The empress dowager has issued another edict eulogizing the late Li Hung Chang and ordering the erection of a memorial arch near his birthplace. The edict also directs that the rank of marquis, conferred upon the eldest son of the late Chinese statesman in his own right shall descend through 23 generations. It confers high rank upon the other sons of Earl Li, upon whom the posthumous rank of marquis has been bestowed, and confers dignities upon his grandsons, together with lucrative offices.

Asphalt in Michigan.

Escanaba, Mich., Nov. 18.—Analysis of asphalt discovered near Rapid river, at the head of Little bay, shows that the product found is composed of 40 parts of high-grade lubricating oil and 60 parts of pure asphaltum, equal in quality to the famous Trinidad product.

Fought Over Creed.

Vienna, Nov. 18.—After a fierce fight Sunday Lutheran students drove Roman Catholic students out of the great hall of the university. The fighting continued outside the building.

STILL A PRISONER.

Brigand Leaders Can Not Agree as to the Amount of Ransom For Miss Ellen M. Stone.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Nov. 18.—The brigands who abducted Miss Ellen M. Stone, the American missionary, and Mme. Tsilka, her companion, have not yet replied to the latest proposals of Mr. Dickinson, diplomatic agent of the United States in Sofia. This is due to the fact that the band has many leaders and that the latter are unable to agree among themselves.

There is a general impression here that time is being frittered away while waiting for the brigands to reduce their demands. It is felt that the only means from which matters can be brought to a head is to inform them as to the amount available for ransom and to declare that this can not be increased for any consideration whatever. Such an ultimatum might endanger the life of Miss Stone, but it is more probable that the brigands will accept this condition.

Besides every day's delay imperils her life, not so much on the score of the brigands themselves, but by reason of the exposure and strain she is undergoing.

THE CHARLESTON EXPOSITION.

It Will Open Next Sunday Week With Religious Exercises By All Denominations.

Charleston, S. C., Nov. 18.—Next Sunday week the exposition will open here with religious exercises in which all denominations will take part. The musical programme will be rendered under the direction of Mme. Barbet, opening with an ode written for the occasion by George Herbert Sasas and set to music by Prof. Theodore Saul. The formal opening of the exposition will take place on Monday, December 2. Chauncey M. Depew, of New York, will deliver the principal oration and President Roosevelt will start the wheels moving by wire from the white house. The president has accepted an invitation to visit the exposition with his cabinet on February 12, Lincoln's birthday, and it is hoped he will be able to remain here several days, a number of entertainments having been projected in his honor, among them a deer hunt on the private grounds of President Wagner, of the exposition company.

This week the finishing touches will be given to the exterior of the exposition buildings and the work of decorating the interior will be completed. Exhibits are arriving each day.

BATTLE WITH BANK ROBBERS.

Two Men Are Dead and a Constable Is in a Very Critical Condition.

Sioux City, Ia., Nov. 18.—John Sunblad, who was shot in the battle with Greenville bank robbers at Albert City Saturday, died Sunday. He was one of the prominent merchants of Albert City.

Constable Lodine, who was shot in the groin, is in a critical condition.

The robber, who was shot in the stomach, died Sunday morning. He refused to give his name or the name of his assistants, but he admitted that they had robbed the bank. These men, a Negro, and a white man, also admit robbing the bank. Besides $437 in money recovered from the burglars they confess to having secreted $500 in a cornfield.

SENATOR CULLOM.

The Illinois Statesman Will Be Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Washington, Nov. 18.—Senator Cullom, of Illinois, will be chairman of the foreign relations committee of the senate, to succeed the late Senator Davis. Senator Cullom said Sunday:

"I can not understand why rumors to the effect that I was undecided whether or not to take this chairmanship should be put into circulation. I have had no other intention since Mr. Frye declined the honor."

Mr. Cullom's decision to accept this chairmanship will cause him to resign the chairmanship of the committee on interstate commerce.

BURIED UNDER SLAG.

One Man Was Killed and Two Badly Burned at the Axle Works, Homestead, Pa.

Homestead, Pa., Nov. 18.—Of a party of workmen buried Sunday under a mass of molten slag at the Howarth axle works, John Rusk, aged 50 years is dead and Andrew Huls, aged 33 and George Siski, aged 54, are badly burned. The accident occurred on the cinder dump of the company's plant. The victims were engaged in collecting scrap when a party of workmen at the top of the dump about 20 feet above dumped their car over the edge not knowing that the men were directly beneath them. The car contained about eight tons of slag, a great part of which was red hot and much of it in a molten state.

Guard Waldrup Dead.

Leavenworth, Kan., Nov. 18.—J. B. Waldrup, a guard at the Ft. Leavenworth military prison, who was shot during the mutiny at that institution on November 7, is dead. Twenty-six mutineers now become liable to a charge of murder.

Broke All Records.

Paris, Nov. 18.—An American-made locomotive, No. 2,999, on the Paris, Lyons & Mediterranean line, drawing 14 cars, a total of 181 tons, ran at the rate of 130 kilometers (81 miles) per hour the other day, breaking all records.

BOLOMEN KILLED.

Company E, Ninth Infantry, Attacked Near Taranganan.

Capt. Hall, of the 21st Infantry, Had Four Separate Engagements With Filipinos in Balangas Province.

Manila, Nov. 18.—Company E, of the 9th infantry, Capt. F. H. Shoefel, was attacked by 50 Bolomen and several insurgents armed with rifles at a point six miles from Taranganan, in the Island of Samar. The insurgents tried to rush the Americans, but failing to accomplish their purpose, they quickly broke and scattered. The men of the 9th had a corporal and a scout killed and one private wounded. Sixteen of the Bolomen were killed while the riflemen escaped.

Ten Hotchkiss rapid fire guns will be sent to the southern islands for operation in the mountains. Capt. Herman Hall, of the 21st infantry, has been scouting for several days in Balangas province. He had four separate engagements with the insurgents there. Judging from the firing on these occasions, Capt. Hall estimates the force of each band of the rebels at from 30 to 50. They made no attempt to charge Capt. Hall's party. Capt. Hall's scout resulted in the capture of one insurgent officer and 50,000 pounds of rice.

Gen. Sumner, commander of the district of Southern Luzon, highly praises Capt. Hartman and his troop of the 1st cavalry who last Wednesday morning attacked 400 insurgents entrenched in rifle pits at Buan, Balangas province, and routed them.

Gen. Sumner says that the blow then administered by Capt. Hartman is the most severe the insurgents have suffered since he, Gen. Sumner, assumed command of his district. Owing to the fact that the United States transports Sheridan, Waldron and Hancock all met with accidents in the inland seas of Japan, and the returning party of visiting congressmen is consequently delayed in the latter country, the transport Thomas, which arrived at Manila November 12, will be immediately dispatched to Japan. Gen. Chaffee opposes United States transports in future passing through the inland seas.

Manila, Nov. 18.—The Filipino priest Deposay has been sentenced by court martial to the penalty of death for the murder of certain of his countrymen who favored the Americans. Out of respect, however, to the condemned man's calling, and the great religious body to which he belonged and most unworthily represented, Gen. Chaffee has commuted the sentence to 20 years imprisonment. Gen. Chaffee desires it to be understood that the leniency exercised in the case can not be known as a precedent and that no person in the islands can be permitted to plead his office, however sacred and exalted this may be, as protection against crimes committed.

The municipal authorities have decided to enlarge the city of Manila and to incorporate within its limits the suburb of Santa Ana.

PRO-BOER DEMONSTRATION.

The Crew of a Dutch Fishing Boat Attacks a British Smack in the North Sea.

London, Nov. 18.—An extraordinary demonstration of pro-Boerism is reported by a Brussels newspaper. It seems that a Dutch fishing boat belonging to Ymuiden, while off Weilingen lightship, in the North sea, pretended to be in distress and approached a British smack. Thirteen fishermen from the Dutch boat boarded the British craft and attacked the crew of the latter, shouting, "Long live the Boers." Several of the Britishers were wounded.

It is alleged that before making the attack the Dutchmen locked their captain in his cabin.

The British smack succeeded in escaping and arrived at Osbend, where the captain lodged a complaint with the British consul.

Death of Dr. Albert L. Gihon.

New York, Nov. 18.—Dr. Albert L. Gihon, about 70 years old, former medical director of the United States navy, who came to this city from the south three weeks ago to meet his wife, who has been in Europe and who is expected back next Tuesday, died in the hospital Sunday. Dr. Gihon suffered a stroke of apoplexy last Thursday at his hotel and never regained consciousness. He was a native of Philadelphia.

Too Good to Live.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 18.—Mrs. Sarah Nordeman, who, with her son Knute Bjorge Nordeman, attempted suicide Saturday by taking morphine, died Sunday. The son is still in the hospital with prospects of recovery, although his mind is seriously deranged. He raved constantly about his desire to leave this world, as he believes himself too good to live here.

Wage Earners Party.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—Inspired by the success of the union labor candidates in San Francisco and Bridgeport, Ct., the labor men of Chicago are to be organized into a wage earners' party, and will have their own candidates for municipal and state officers.

Yeomanry Captured.

London, Nov. 18.—The South African casualty list shows that in the affairs at Brakspruit, November 13, which Lord Kitchener reported last Friday, 58 yeomanry were captured by the Boers and afterward released.

THE LETTER! DID NOT SEND.

He was the friend of my boyhood,
My youth and my manhood's prime,
We had vowed to be ever faithful
To the end of our earthly time.
But somehow it happened we quarreled;
One word to another led;
And our eyes were flashing in anger
And bitter was all we said.

That night I wrote such a letter
As one might write to a foe,
And told him that never thereafter
Would I wish his presence to know;
We must pass each other as strangers,
Our lives henceforward apart;
And let him know that forever
I had torn him out of my heart.

Then I sought my bed, still raging,
But I courted slumber in vain;
The face of my more than brother
Rose before me ever again.
He was always so true beside me
And sharing all changes of life;
Our words had been always of loving
And never till now of strife.

And then our quarrel—what was it?
How did it ever begin?
Perhaps he was right—yes, I know it,
It was I in the wrong, after all.
Then I rose from my bed, took the letter,
And cast it into the fire;
And there saw it smolder in ashes;
And thus did my anger expire.

A fair morning shone on our meeting;
A look we could each understand
Had drawn us once more together
In a warm, firm grasp of the hand.
Not a word was said of our quarrel,
Again it was friend and friend,
Thank God that He never saw it—
The letter I did not send!

CHAPTER VII.

There was trouble at the Presidio. All but ten of the escaped prisoners had been recaptured or self-surrendered, but the ten still at large were among the worst of the array, and among the ten was the burly, hulking recruit enlisted under the name of Murray, but declared by Capt. Kress, on the strength of the report of a detective from town, to be earlier and better known as Sackett and as a former member of the Seventh cavalry, from which regiment he had parted company without the formality of either transfer or discharge.

Murray was a man worth his keep, as military records of misdeemeanors went, and a sore-headed fellow was the sergeant of the guard, held responsible for the wholesale escape. And yet it was not so much the sergeant's fault.

The evening had come on dark, damp and dripping. Gas lamps and barrack lanterns were lighted before the sunset gun. The sergeant himself and several of the guard had been called inside to the prison room by the commanding officer and his staff. There was a maze of brick and wooden buildings in front of the guard-house, and a perfect tangle of dense shrubbery only 50 yards away to the west. It was into this that most of the fugitives dived and were instantly lost to sight, while others had doubled behind the guard-house and rushed into an alley-way that passed in rear of the club and a row of officers' quarters.

Some of them apparently had taken refuge in the cellars or wood and coal sheds until thick darkness came down, and others had actually dared to enter the quarters of Lieut. Ray, for the back door was found wide open, the sideboard, wherein had been kept some choice old Kentucky whisky produced only on special occasions, had been forced, and the half-empty demijohn and some glasses stood on the table in a pool of sloppy water.

But what was worse, the lieutenant's desk in the front room, securely locked when he went to town, had been burst open with a chisel, and Mr. Ray had declined to say how much he had lost. Indeed, he did not fully know.

"Too busy to come in," was the message he had sent his mother the morning after the discovery, and yet all that morning he remained about his quarters after one brief interview with the perturbed and exasperated post commander, ransacking desks, drawers and trunks in the vain hope that he might find in them some of the missing property, for little by little the realization was forced upon him that his loss would sum up several hundreds—all through his own neglect and through disregard of his father's earnest counsel.

Only three days before the lieutenant commanding his troop had been sent to Oregon and Washington on duty connected with the mustering of volunteers. Their captain was a field officer of one of the regiments of his native state, and, in hurriedly leaving, Lieut. Creswell had turned over to his young subordinate not only the troop fund, amounting to over $400, but the money belonging to the post athletic association, and marked envelopes containing the pay of certain soldiers on temporary detached service—in all between $900 and $1,000.

"Whenever you have care of public money—even temporarily—put it at once into the nearest United States depository," said his father. "Even office safes in garrison are not safe," he had further said. "Clerks, somehow, learn the combination and are tempted sometimes beyond their strength. Lose no time, therefore, in getting your funds into the bank."

And that was what he meant to do in this case, only, as the absent troopers were expected to return in two days, what was the use of breaking up those sealed envelopes and depositing the whole thing only to have to draw it out in dribbles again as the men came to him for it?

There stood his own desk, a beautiful and costly thing—his mother's gift—with its strong locks and intricate system of pigeon-holes and secret drawers. He would "chance it" one night, he said, and give his trusted servant orders to stand guard over the premises, and so the little bag of gold went into one closed compartment, the envelopes and wads of treasury notes into the hidden drawer, and the key into his watch pocket.

His servant was a young man whose father had been with Col. Ray for a quarter of a century, a faithful Irishman by the name of Hogan. He was honest to the core and had but one serious failure—he would drink.

And now Saturday morning, while the guns of Alcatraz were booming in salute across the bay and all the garrison was out along the shore or on the seaward heights, waving farewell to the Vinton flotilla, and his mother and Maide had gone out with the department commander to bid them goodspeed, poor Sandy sat wretchedly in his quarters.

Hogan, overwhelmed by the magnitude of his master's misfortune, and realizing that it was due in no small degree to his own neglect, was now self-exiled from the lieutenant's room, and seeking such consolation as he could find at the Harp of Erin outside the walls, a miserable and contrite man—contrite, that is to say, as manifested in the manner of his country, for Hogan was pottle deep in his distress.

Although vouched for as perfectly sober from the Hibernian point of view, he well knew that he had taken so much that fatal Thursday evening as to be fearful of meeting his master, and so had kept out of the way until full time for him to be gone to dinner. Then, working his way homeward in the darkness of the night, he had marveled much at finding the back door open, rejoiced at sight of the demijohn and disordered in the little dining-room, arguing therefrom that the lieutenant had had some jovial callers and therefore hadn't missed him.

Hogan drank in his master's priceless old Blue Grass Bourbon, to the health of the party, and then, stumbling into the bedroom and lighting the lamp, came upon a sight that filled him with dismay—the beautiful desk burst open, drawers and letters and papers scattered about in utter confusion—and in his excitement and terror he had gone on the run to the adjutant's quarters, told that official of his discovery, and then learned of the wholesale jail delivery that occurred at retreat.

He wrung his hands and wept as he listened to his young master's wrathful rebuke and the recital of his losses. He hung neckly about the house all night long, but, unable to bear the sight of poor Ray's mingled anger and distress, he had fled with the coming of the day and gone to tell his woes to his friend of the Harp.

Afternoon of Saturday came, and still Ray sat there nerveless. He knew that any moment now would bring that loving mother and sister. He had cleared up the litter left by the robbers, put his desk in order, and Hogan had done his best with the sideboard in the other room.

Sympathetic souls among his brother officers had been in from time to time consoling him with theories that the thief could not escape—would surely be recaptured and the money recovered. But on the other hand he was visited by the returned troopers in quest of their money, and was compelled to tell them of the robbery and to ask them to wait until Monday, when he would be able to pay them.

Luckier than others who have been overtaken in the army by somewhat similar misfortune, Ray knew that he had only to acquaint his parents with the extent of his loss, and, even though the sum was great, it would be instantly made good. Yet the thought of having to tell his mother was a sore thing. He had disregarded his father's caution. He had proved unworthy of trust before the gloss had begun to wear from his first shoulder-straps, and he well knew that his mother's fortune was no longer what it was at the time of her marriage.

In the years of their wanderings all over the west all her business affairs had been in the hands of a trusted agent at home, and it so often happens that in the prolonged absence of owners trusted agents follow the lead of the unjust steward of Holy Writ and make friends of the mammon of unrighteousness and ducks and drakes of their employers' assets.

The ranch bought for him the year gone by was a heavy drain. His father, in giving him a few hundred dollars for his outfit, had told him that now he must live entirely on his pay, and that he should be able to "put by" a little every month.

Put, as was to be expected of his father's son and his Kentucky blood, Sancy could not bid farewell to his associates at the ranch or the citizens of the little cow and mining town on the Big Horn without a parting "blow out," in which his health was drunk a dozen times an hour. Oh, that he had that money now instead of certain unpaid bills in that ravished secret drawer! It was humiliatingly inexpressible to have to send these men away empty-handed, and in his dejection and misery, poor boy, he wandered to his sideboard instead of going to luncheon at the mess, and all he had had to eat or drink that day, by the time Mrs. Ray and Maide came late in the afternoon, was some crackers and cheese and he didn't know how many nips of that priceless Blue Grass Bourbon.

The bright, brave young eyes were glassy and his dark cheek heavily flushed when at four o'clock he hastened out to assist his mother form her carriage, and the color fled from her beautiful face, her heart seemed to stand still, and her hand trembled violently as she noted it all, but took his arm without a word, and, with Maide silently following, went up the steps and into the little army home, where the door closed behind them, and the knot of lookers-on, officers awaiting the call for afternoon stables, glanced significantly at each other, then went on their way.

CHAPTER VIII.

Vinton's flotilla came steaming in to Honolulu harbor just as the smoke of the Doric was fading away on the western horizon.

Cheers and acclamations, a banquet tendered to the entire force in the beautiful grounds about the palace, and a welcome such as even San Francisco had not given awaited them. Three days were spent in coaling for the long voyage to Manila, and during that time officers and men were enabled to spend hours in sea-bathing and sight-seeing.

Vinton, eager to push ahead, fumed with impatience over the slow and primitive methods by which his ships were coaled, but the junior officers found many a cause for rejoicing over their enforced detention. Dinners, dances, and surf rides were the order of every evening. Ridding parties to the Pall and picnics at Pearl Harbor and the plantations along the railway filled up every hour of the long, soft, sensuous days.

The soldiers explored every nook and corner of the town and, for a wonder, got back to ship without serious diminution in their number, and with a high opinion of the police, who seemed bent on protecting the blue-coats from the states and making the best of their exuberance of spirits.

Only one row of any consequence occurred within the forty-eight hours of their arrival. Three of the Colorado volunteers playing billiards in a prominent resort were deliberately annoyed and insulted by some merchant sailors who had been drinking heavily at the expense of a short, thick-set burly fellow in a loud check suit and flaming necktie, a stranger to the police, who knew of him only that he had landed from the Doric and was waiting the coming of the Miowera from Vancouver for Australia, and she was due on the morrow.

He had taken quarters at a second-rate sailors' lodging house and at first kept much to himself, but, once starting to drinking with his maritime neighbors, he became noisy and truculent, and sallied forth with four of his new-found friends, all half drunk and wholly bent on mischief.

The sight of three quiet-mannered young fellows playing pool in the saloon was just the thing to excite all the blackguard instinct latent in their half sodden skins, and from sneering remark they had rapidly passed to deliberate insult.

In less than a minute thereafter the young volunteers, flushed and panting, were surveying the police and bystanders engaged in dragging out from under the tables and propping up some wrecks of humanity, while the head devil of the whole business, the burly civilian in the loud checked suit, pitched headlong out of a rear window, was stanching the blood from his broken nose at the hydrant of a neighboring stable.

The volunteers were escorted to the landing with all honors, and their antagonists, barring the ringleader, to the police station. The affair was over so quickly that few had seen anything of it, and only one man had pitched in to the support of the soldiers—a civilian who came over on the Vanguard by the authority of Gen. Vinton, the ex-brakeman of the Southern Pacific. While the Colorado men had little to say beyond the statement that they had been wantonly insulted if not actually assailed by a gang of strangers, the railway man was ablaze with excitement and wrath over the escape of the leader of the vanquished party.

"I've seen that our dog face of his somewhere before," said he, "and the quicker you find and nab him the better. That man's wanted in more than one place or I'm a duffer."

And so the police spent hours that night in search of the stranger, but to no purpose. He kept in hiding somewhere, and their efforts were vain. Search of his luggage at the lodging house revealed the fact that he had a lot of new shirts, underwear, etc., but not a paper or mark that revealed his identity. The proprietor said the man had given the name of Spence, but he heard two of the sailors call him Sackett.

The following evening the general and his staff dined at the beautiful home of one of the old and wealthy residents, and towards nine o'clock Mr. Stuyvesant asked his general's permission to withdraw, as he had two calls to make before returning aboard ship. They were to sail at dawn.

Bidding good night and good-by to his charming hostess and declining the hospitable offer of a post-prandial "peg" from her genial lord, the young officer stepped blithely away down the moonlit avenue.

It was a beautiful summer night. The skies were cloudless, the air soft and still. Somewhere, either at the park or in the grounds of the Royal Hawaiian, the famous band of Honolulu was giving a concert, and strains of glorious music, rich and full, came floating on the gentle breeze. Here and there the electric lights were gleaming in the dense tropical foliage and sounds of merry chat and musical laughter fell softly on the ear.

The broad thoroughfare of Beretania street was well-nigh deserted, though once in awhile the lights of a cab on noiseless wheel flashed by, and at rare intervals Stuyvesant met or overtook some blissful pair whispering in the deep shadows of the overhanging trees.

It was quite a walk to the consul general's, his first objective point, but he enjoyed it and the brief visit that followed. Naturally the affair of the previous evening came up for discussion, and there was some conjecture and speculation as to the identity of the leader of the attack on the Denver boys. Stuyvesant repeated what his friend the brakeman said, that somewhere he had seen the fellow's face before, but he had only a second's glimpse of it, for the moment he launched in to the aid of the volunteers the man in the check suit caught sight of him—and a simultaneous crack on the nose that sent him reeling towards the open window, through which he darted the instant he could recover balance, leaving the field equally divided, four to four in point of numbers, but otherwise with overwhelming advantage on the side of the clear heads and trained muscles of the soldiers.

MONKEY AND MATCH-BOX.

Antics of a Simian Pet of Prof. Garner When Possessed of the Article.

Monkeys are always happy if they have plenty to eat and something to play with. Prof. R. L. Garner, in his "Apes and Monkeys," says that he recalls no investment which ever yielded a greater return in pleasure than a certain little match safe, which cost 25 cents. He gave it to a little monkey, Nellie by name, after putting into it a small key to make it rattle, and some bits of candy.

She rattled the box and found much pleasure in the noise. I showed her how to press the spring in order to open the box, but her little black fingers were not strong enough to release the spring.

However, she caught the idea, and knew that the spring was the secret which held the box closed. When she found that she could not open it with her fingers, she tried it with her teeth. Failing in this she turned to the wall, and, standing upright on the top of her cage, she took the box in both hands and struck the spring against the wall until the lid flew open.

She was perfectly delighted at the result, and for the hundredth time, at least, I closed the box for her to open it again.

The next time Nellie received the match safe she was in her cage, and through its meshes she could not reach the wall. She had nothing against which to strike the spring to force it open.

After looking around and striking the box several times against the wires of the cage, she discovered a block of wood about six inches square. She took this and mounted her perch. Balancing the block on the perch, she held it with the left foot, while with the right foot she clung to the perch. With her tail wound around the meshes of the cage to steady herself, she carefully adjusted the matchbox in such a manner as to protect her fingers from the blow. Then she struck the spring against the block of wood, and the lid flew open.

She fairly screamed with delight as she held up the box.

Under False Colors.

A woman prominent in smart society purchased a beautiful set of Dresden china coffee cups, but the next day sent them back to the store as not quite satisfactory. A clerk, returning the fragile things to the cases, touched something sticky. Investigation proved that the cups had been used and washed carelessly. The frequency of such petty frauds calls for protest. Another incident has a pleasant flavor. A young college girl some years ago appeared in a pretty frock of a pattern which had been seen the day before on her richer roommate. A teacher commented aloud on the poor taste of wearing borrowed finery. The girl flushed, but remained silent. At dinner the roommates appeared dressed exactly alike. That was an older woman blushed. The student who had controlled herself has since been honored as one of the first ladies of the land. To scorn to sail under false colors is one thing; to attribute false things to others, without strong evidence, is quite a different thing.—Youth's Companion.

At Monte Carlo.

The croupier paid our winnings with evident reluctance. "He doesn't like to cough!" we observed.

"Croupy, eh?" suggested the witty American.

But the laughter was far from general, inasmuch as few of that gay throng understood both French and English.—Detroit Journal.

Notice.

To Policy Holders in Old Line Companies: Beware of the confidence game played by the pious Insurance Agent who wants to do you the favor of switching you from your company to his. All companies write numerous plans of insurance and every plan costs a different price. You get value received for any plan you buy, from any Old Line Company. When the confidence man shows you a plan differing from the one you have, which is part of the game, and should you prefer this particular plan write to the Agent or Company who insured you and get it, and thereby save what you paid. Don't be an easy mark. There are millions of dollars lost each year by policyholders being duped by confidence men.

Women and Jewels.

Jewels, candy, flowers, man—that is the order of a woman's preferences. Jewels form a magnet of mighty power to the average woman. Even that greatest of all jewels, health, is often ruined in the strenuous efforts to make or save the money to purchase them. If a woman will risk her health to get a coveted gem, then let her fortify herself against the insidious consequences of coughs, colds and bronchial affections by the regular use of Dr. Boschee's German Syrup. It will promptly arrest consumption in its early stages and heal the affected lungs and bronchial tubes and drive the dread disease from the system. It is not a cure all but it is a certain cure for coughs, colds and all bronchial troubles. You can get Dr. G. G. Green's reliable remedies at W. T. Brooks'. Get Green's Special Almanac.

A Physician Testifies.

"I have taken Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and have never used anything in my life that did me the good that did," says County Physician Geo. W. Scroggs, of Hall county, Ga. "Being a physician, I have prescribed it and found it to give the best results." If the food you eat remains undigested in your stomach it decays there and poisons the system. You can prevent this by dieting, but that means starvation. Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. You need suffer from neither dyspepsia nor starvation, the worst cases quickly cured. Never fails. W. T. Brooks.

Brain Food Nonsense.

Another ridiculous food fad has been branded by the most competent authorities. They have dispelled the silly notion that one kind of food is needed for brain, another for muscles, and still another for bones. A correct diet will not only nourish a particular part of the body, but it will sustain every other part. Yet however good your food may be, its nutriment is destroyed by indigestion or dyspepsia. You must prepare for their appearance or prevent their coming by taking regular doses of Greens August Flower, the favorite medicine of the healthy millions. A few doses aids digestion, stimulates the liver to healthy action, purifies the blood, and makes you feel buoyant and vigorous. You can get Dr. G. G. Green's reliable remedies at W. T. Brooks'. ### Poison Oak Poison Ivy are among the best known of the many dangerous wild plants and shrubs. To touch or handle them quickly produces swelling and inflammation with intense itching and burning of the skin. The eruption soon disappears, the sufferer hopes forever; but almost as soon as the little blisters and the blood, and will break out at regular intervals and each time in a more aggravated form. This poison will loiter in the system for years, and every atom of it must be forced out of the blood before you can expect a perfect, permanent cure.

SSS Nature's Antidote FOR Nature's Poisons.

is the only cure for Poison Oak, Poison Ivy, and all noxious plants. It is composed exclusively of roots and herbs. Now is the time to get the poison out of your system, as delay makes your condition worse. Don't experiment longer with salves, washes and soaps—they never cure.

Mr. S. M. Marshall, bookkeeper of the Atlanta Gas Light Co., was poisoned with Poison Oak. He took Sulphur, Arsenic and various other drugs, and applied externally numerous lotions and salves with no benefit. At times the swelling and inflammation was so severe he was almost blind. For eight years the poison would break out every season. His condition was much improved after taking one bottle of S. S. S., and a few bottles cleared his blood of the poison, and all evidences of the disease disappeared.

People are often poisoned without knowing when or how. Explain your case fully to our physicians, and they will cheerfully give such information and advice as you require, without charge, and we will send at the same time an interesting book on Blood and Skin Diseases.
